

Mystery Entity

The Entity the main protagonists encountered while trying to find their ultra safe spot for tonight. A blizzard came out of nowhere, even though it was totally daylight a few hours ago. Indicating that the entity might be the one responsible for the harsh weather for tonight. Kyo and Tauriel manage to escape him with great difficulty, whilst Corone is casually passed out on Kyo's back as Kyo has him in a piggyback ride. This entity seems relentless and this might not be the last we see of him...

Speculated Appearance

During their little chase, Kyo was able to make out a rough estimation of how the entity looked like. Due to Kyo having slight night vision, he was able to tell that the entity was a very tall (between 2 m and 2.3 m) elderly male of European descent, with an extremely emaciated appearance. The entity appears to be completely naked aswell which kind of ticks Kyo's fight or flight instincts... Kyo analyses its face closely.. A gaunt facial structure, unblinking staring eyes, a wide mouth filled with yellowed teeth, and a sparse, unkempt white beard. Pale, weathered skin that withstands sub-zero temperatures without protection. It's arms seem to be incredibly elongated and dislocated somewhat. Though, due to this being just a rough speculation of how he might look like, this isn't truly his real appearance.

True Appearance

The Entity, also known as the lord of the flies, is a shapeshifting creature capable of shapeshifting into anything it desires as long as it fits the cult-ish criteria. Most of its avatars are usually really disturbing and overall incredibly negative which explains the thing Kyo saw during their little wild goose chase. Its avatars vary from Ashtar Sheran to the eldritch demon Baal and other things such as entities with incredibly elongated limbs, pale skin, red-dark yellowish eyes, an extremely long and unsightly smile and or another uncanny expression, towering stature. Though the lord of the flies is also very much capable of manipulation and deception. Mostly tricking the gang with false avatars using modern, shiny clothing with the avatar of an adorable girl and or an elegant dark suit with the avatar of an incredibly handsome boy. Being able to shapeshift into quite literally anything it desires whilst in its deception mode. It's also able to easily change its personality to fit his current avatar and it absolutely loves cosplaying as a magical girl; Something it could never be using its true appearance. The Lord of the Flies has an extreme personality crisis due to it constantly changing everytime it shapeshifts which causes it to lose control alot of the time. This leads to the creation of its true avatar, which is where its nickname stems from.

Personalities and how they affect the entity

The Lord of the Flies has many personalities to fit the avatar its wearing for either deception or hunting. Each avatar grants him a new type of strength ranging from total superhuman strength to relativistic superspeed. Though due to his personalities, he's rarely ever in a controlled state of mind which causes him to not act smart during battles.

Personality - INFJ [Reliable, Idealistic]

Used mostly in approachable looking avatars. A person you'd approach for help and teamwork.

Personality - ISFJ [Warm, Collective]

Used mostly in friendly looking avatars. A person you'd approach for love and affection.

Personality - ESFP [Playful, Energetic]

Used mostly in jester looking avatars. A jester you'd consider really good at its job.

Personality - LORD [Bloodlust, Hunger]

Out of control, shapeshifts into things that are currently going through its mind; They don't look pretty.
